=Prof. Geo. Hartnell Bartlett of Arlington, and principal of the Massachusetts Normal Art School, is giving a course of lectures on the "History and Practice of the Art of Illustrating." The initial lecture of the course was delivered on Thursday afternoon at quarter after two, at the Art School, when Prof. Bartlett spoke on "History and practice of drawing and engraving on wood, steel, copper-plate engraving and mezzotint.' The lecture was illustrated by examples of wood engraving and drawing on wood. The art of printing from plates was described and proofs from the plates executed by the German, French and English engravers were shown. The course tends to be highly instructive and educational. The second lecture comes on the 13th inst., when the subject will be, "Lithography-Zincography."

WOMAN AND FASHION

Black Cloth Toilet.

The sketch shows a stylish black cloth toilet, with the skirt made in triple effect, the two upper sections being bordered with a band of black velvet enriched with applications of black cloth. The jacket, with stylish basque at the back and open fronts, is also trimmed with the velvet bands, which are caught up at the corners by fancy black buttons set in a gold circle. The vest is of black velvet elaborately trimmed with the cloth applique.-Philadelphia Ledger.

Who Sets the Styles?

Do we get our fashions from Paris and London, or do they take their tone from us regarding styles? Really, it is a pretty question and one that bears looking into. Here we have the English and French women bemoaning the appearance of the short skirt in their midst quite as sadly as did we Amer icans a few years ago, when it required no small stock of courage to appear it public in the abbreviated skirt. Ther the Parisians have begun to take a surprising interest in the stunning clothes that make Uncle Sam's fair rep resentatives look so wondrously fas nating when enjoying a that gay capital, and they can scarcely realize from whence this well groomed and magnificently gowned rival has ap

The American modiste, on the other hand, pins on her hat some fine morn ing and sails for Paris and London with only a well filled purse and a note book to bear her company. She pur chases a few trunks of finery, fills her notebook with ideas upon arrival and flies home on the next boat to produce some of the most marvelous creations that are a composite of all the beautiful things she has seen and her own original ideas. The result is that the English and French women are beginning to recognize that the American woman is decidedly worth looking at and imitating.-Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Pendulum of Fashion. Soft, flexible cloths, which look almost like satin at a little distance, are fashioned into the most charming of evening gowns, softened by lace and enhanced with fur. For several years past the leading London dressmakers have had a weakness for evening frocks of fine cloth, but have failed to make them popular. However, at last there are indications that with the tendency to swing back, which characterizes the pendulum of fashion, cloth will be the chief rival of chiffon in the near fu-

NEW SHORT STORIES

"Marse Henry's" Popularity. "There goes Marse Henry," said a Kentuckian affectionately as Mr. Henry Watterson passed through the corridor of the capitol recently. "He is Colonel Watterson to the world at large, but 'Marse Henry' to the little world in Kentucky that loves him, and I believe that he values the latter appellation more than any title that has been bestowed upon him. "When I was a boy, I lived at a little railroad station in Kentucky which was reached by the mail train about 11 o'clock every morning. It was the custom for the inhabitants to gather at the station to await the coming of The Courier-Journal. No work was done in the meantime, the little group about the station discussing the affairs of state, with occasional reference to local questions of grave importance. "When the train arrived, the single copy of The Courier-Journal which came to our place was handed out. Then came I into momentary importance and prominence. As the best reader in the crowd-being at that time eleven years of age and having progressed as far as Guffey's Fifth Reader in the Frankfort school-I was daily elected to read the paper to the assembled crowd.

"Mounting the well whittled store box that stood by the freight agent's door and pausing a moment to permit each gent to take a fresh 'chaw' of tobacco to assist meditation and mental digestion, I proceeded to read the paper aloud amid a most respectable silence from the audience. "Read it all? By no means. I read 'Marse Henry's' leading editorial. That was all our people wanted. Little cared they for the headlines of the news columns. The editorial set the pace for the day for our folks, and when the last word was read every man went his way about his work."-Washington

A Tale of a Famous Marksman.

In a book published recently by T. F. Freemantle, who is an authority on rifle shooting, the following story is told of a man who is famous in the history of international rifle matches:

Sir Henry Halford on one occasionit was not a very clear day-was about to begin shooting at 1,000 yards and thinking that the marker must now be ready for him to begin, asked him through the telephone, "Are you all right?" The marker replied, "All right, sir, in a minute." But unluckily $ir Henry took "All right, sir," instead of the whole sentence and removed the telephone from his ear. He lay down and fired his shot and on looking through the telescope to see where it had hit was horrified to see the marker with a perfectly white face staggering away toward his shelter. He was intensely alarmed, and in a moment there came a ring at the telephone. "What has happened? Are you badly hurt?" "No, sir, I am not hurt, but I had a bucket of whitewash between my legs painting the target, and you put a bullet into it and splashed it all up in my face."

When the Statue Falls.

The three were indulging in their favorite pastime, jesting, Messrs. Ruppert, Ryan and Fitzgerald of New York composing the party. Ruppert had just handed out a box of cigarettes when Representative O. H. P. Belmont came through the Democratic cloakroom.

"Look at him. Ain't be handsome?" said Fitzgerald, with a merry twinkle, pointing to the distinguished Belmont. "And see how chipper he appears." chimed Ruppert.

"A regular three ply fashion plate." piped Ryan.

"Oh, by the way, Mr. Belmont," said Fitzgerald, who is usually up to some innocent pleasantry, "I've got a new joke to spring on you." Then he started in, "If the statue of Liberty in New York harbor were to fall into the bay. what would it be?"

gerald's companions a moment and then said smilingly:

"Why, Mr. Fitzgerald, a statue-wet. Drafts on England and Ireland from £1 up. of course."—Washington Post.

Carnegie's Way.

"It is better to give than to receive," began a clergyman the other day, addressing Mr. Andrew Carnegie as he descended the steps of the Lotos club.

Mr. Carnegie scented a petition for a donation and, as he makes it a rule to select and investigate his charities for himself, tactly observed as he passed: "I have found that rule works both ways. I'll frankly admit that I have found great pleasure in receiving as well as in giving. I like to give, but in TERMS CASH. Coal at market prices. my own way. Perhaps it is a selfish pleasure, but I can't help it."-New York Times.

A TRANSIT OF VENUS.

How It as Observed by a Party of German Scientists,

C: their way between Telriz and Teheran the members of an expedition sent to Persia by the German government to observe the transit of Venus met . a solitary Lar pean lady riding in the opposite direction, a member of the English colony, who was as Elever as she was beautiful. Having been fong a resident in Persia, she was frariessly riding alone a long way ahead of her caravan. The Germans marveled at such an apparition in such a dreary waste-wondered she wasn't afraid. Wouldn't she let some of them stand by until her servants and baggage came up? No, she was quite at ease, and usually in her travels was far ahead of her attendants, whose mules, more heavily laden, could not keep her

"And now, gentlemen," she said, "who are you, and where are you bound for ?"

They introduced each other. One was the astronomer, another the photographer, another the archæologist, the naturalist, and so on, and they were going to Ispahan to observe the transit of Venus. The lady smiled, started her pony and waved her adieu, saying:

"To observe the transit of Venus? Ah, well, you can go home, now, gentlemen! Your duty is done. Goodby."

The fair vision disappeared at a canter toward the horizon, and it was said that the Germans did not see the joke till a long time after Venus had disappeared from their ken.-Life of Major General Sir Robert Murdoch Smith, K. C. M. G.

THE NEW MANAGER.

Why He Did Not Discharge a Certain Railroad Conductor.

Among the first railroads built in the United States was a little line about twenty miles in length. In the course of time a big tunnel line was constructed through the same country. The original line became merely a branch. For many years it was run in a cheap way, with one locomotive, one engineer and two or three freight cars.

Finally a new general manager was appointed. He had been in the office but a week when he sent for the one lone conductor who had held the posttion ever since the road was built,

"I would like to have your resignation," said the general manager when the conductor appeared. "My resignation?" inquired the conductor in astonishment. "Yes, sir, yours."

"What for, pray?" "Well, I want to make some changes and get new blood in the line," was the general manager's reply. "I won't resign," answered the conductor.

"Then I will be compelled to discharge you, a step which for your sake I had hoped I would be saved from taking." "Young man, you will not discharge me. I own a controlling interest in the stock of this railroad and elect the president and board of directors. I shall have you fired."

The old conductor did really own the majority of the stock and, as he said, put in his own board of directors and president.

Lion and Eagle.

An English paper notes it as a curious fact that although the eagle is the national bird of the United States and therefore deserving of peculiar honor, yet, in point of fact, the bird is nearly always ruthlessly killed when the opportunity offers. This statement seems to be impressive until it is remembered that whenever they have a chance Englishmen ruthlessly kill the lion, which symbolizes the greatness and power of the British empire.—New York Tribune.

The Period of Danger.

During the recent trial of a suit to collect a medical fee a witness was put on the stand to prove the correctness of the physician's bill.

The man was asked by counsel for the defense whether the doctor did not make several visits aften the patient was out of danger.

"No," was the reply. "I considered the patient in danger so long as the doctor continued his visits."

Whiting.

All whitings are made from chalk. The more common preparations sometimes contain considerable gritty matter, which scratches highly polished surfaces. These coarse particles may be removed in this manner: Mix the whiting with water to a paste and then add water until it is very thin. Strain through cheesecloth and let the strained mixture settle. Pour off the water and dry the whiting.

Proximity to Boston should cause injury to local trade through no license in Cambridge if anywhere. But, when the business men of that city were canvassed upon this question a few years ago, 268 of them signed for publication, a statement of their belief that no license had benefitted the material interests of the city, coupled with a hope that it might be continued.

"The Colonials" is the title of a neatly printed and well bound volume of historic fiction from the pen of Mr. Allen French, that contains a large amount of historical data of special interest to the people of the metropolitan district around Boston, its scenes being largely in and around that city in prerevolutionary days; and of the habits of the people, methods of speech, etc., the author has evidently made a careful study. Then again historical data has been conformed to with greater rigidity than is often the case with story writers, so there are none of those glaring discrepencies that have yet his descriptive paragraphs have native strength and in dialogue there is often bright humor. The after-supper exercises and toasts, presided over by Mr. Cox, opened with an original ode sung by Miss Ethel Cox and Mr. Paul Greenwood, the company joining in the familiar strains of the chorus. The speeches and toasts concluded with a song by a boy choir, trained by Miss Williams, who accompanied them with her violin. The toasts and speeches were made the occasion of no end of fun, with hits and allusions to events of those past happy summer days, which were so suggestive and meant so much to the participants. They were responded to as B. Sampson, aged 63 years.

WASHINGTON LETTER

(3pecial Correspondence.) Nearly every member of the senate keeps or has his wife keep for him a memorandum book in which he records the invitations which he accepts, so that as each day dawns, or, rather, as each night comes, he may know where he is to dine or whose reception he is to attend. Never in the history of the country has the social life of a senator been as strenuous as it is now. Senator Elkins, for instance, is either giving a dinner or is a guest at a dinner every night in the week. Senator Lodge is another senator who is greatly in demand and whose dates are filled for weeks ahead. Senator Me-Millan's dinners are frequent and are always delightful, while Senator Wetmore, who has a fortune at his command, also likes to entertain. Senator Kean is another dinner giver of renown, while Senator Hale counts that day lost in which he does not participate in a social function. In fact, it is remarkable that senators are able to appear every day in their seats, ready and anxious to do business, after dinnefs and dinners galore. They must have copper lined interiors.

Very few of the Democrats are dinner givers. Senator Clark of Montana is an exception to the rule, and when he gives a dinner it is the kind which would make Lucullus turn over in his grave with envy.

The Baby Member.

The baby member of the house is Representative Lever of South Carollna. He is only twenty-seven years old and looks twenty. He was private secretary of the late Representative Stokes and when the latter died was voted by a grateful constituency into the vacant seat.

Every day at 11:45 o'clock Bert Kennedy, assistant doorkeeper, warns all persons and entitled to the floor to vacate. The rules of the house requiring the same." For three days Kennedy saw a small boy sitting at a desk and coolly disregarding the official summons to retire. He threw his piping, penetrating voice in the direction of the lad, but without effect. On the third day Kennedy told his troubles to Amos Cummings.

"If that boy doesn't get out of here be fore 12 o'clock, I'll throw him out," said Kennedy.

"What boy?" asked Cummings. "Sitting over there," replied Kennedy, pointing in Lever's direction.

I wouldn't throw him out," said

"Why not?" inquired Kennedy. "Because," remarked Cummings, "you might lose your job. He is a member of the house." Kennedy didn't say a word, and Representative Lever remained undis-

in the senate get mixed up. One comes from South Carolina and the other from Mississippi.

The two senators do not look in the least alike, but their pictures are constantly being transposed in the newspaper offices. When McLaurin of South Carolina delivers a speech full of devotion to Republican principles. McLaurin of Mississippi sees his own picture as an accompaniment, much to his annoyance. Sometimes the shoe is on the other foot, as when McLaurin of South Carolina found himself portrayed as one of the directors of the state prison in Mississippi on the occasion of some recent trouble there. There seems to be no way to avoid this mixing up of the two senators except when the roll of the senate is being called, and then on the opposite side of the same question.

"During all previous administrations we have always been furnished a light meal after since President Roosevelt came into office.

"We get the thanks from President Roosevelt, but no sandwiches or coffee. We want both, but I am rather in fayor of dispensing with the gratitude and having something to eat, because a man is certainly hungry after he plays for several hours."

Fun For the King of Siam.

There ought to be joy in the heart of the king of Siam. He wants to come to the United States as the guest of the nation, which means that the good people would have to pay the royal bills. If the proposition now before congress to invite his royal majesty should become a law, the king could put a time lock on his purse when he reached San Francisco and hold it there until he set sail for home.

And there ought to be joy in the roy al heart because the first step toward inviting him has been taken. The subcommittee of the committee on foreign relations, which has had the matter under consideration, has decided to report favorably.

Children's Room a Success. The special room for children in the Smithsonian building opened in September has proved a point of attraction not only for children, but for their elders. It is hoped that in addition to interesting little people in natural history a larger and more important result may be attained in the application of better methods of exhibiting objects in the museum at large and in other museums elsewhere for the instruction and interest of the general public.

CHOICE MISCELLANY

Russia's Bad Showing. M. de Witte is perhaps the greatest finance minister Russia has ever had and in his last report has painted as gloomy a view of the industrial and economic situation of the empire as any of his predecessors have done in its darkest days of war, bankruptcy and famine. The metal industries, he says, are on the verge of ruin; the textile nearly as bad. In twenty years the productivity of the land has diminished over one-quarter. An acre produces less than one-fifth of the same area in America. The number of houses has diminished nearly one-half in thirty years. Nearly half the population are hopelessly in arrears with their taxes, and the only parts of the empire which show any signs of prosperity are those inhabited by non-Russian populations-Finland, Poland and the Caucasus. It is not a favorable showing for Russia's aggressive purposes, though she is little accustomed to abate them on account of hard times or the penury and sufferings of her people.

Uncle Sam at the Head.

In the world's race after the rolling dollars Uncle Sam comes in far ahead. The treasury bureau of statistics has just received the yearbook of the London Daily Mail for 1902, in which the United States heads the list of wealthy nations, with £16,350,000,000 to her credit. Great Britain comes second, with £11.806,000,000; France third, with £9,690,000,000, and Germany fourth, with £8,052,000,000. Russia is last of the principal nations, having to her credit only £6,425,000,000.

It is also satisfactory to see that of these five nations the United States has the smallest national debt. £221. 000,000. Germany's debt is £651,000, 000, that of the United Kingdom £706, 000,000, that of Russia £711,000,000 and that of France £1,239,000,000.

The same list also shows the United States to be the largest wheat producer, her crop for 1901 being 480,000,-000 bushels, over double that of Russia, next on the list.

Housecleaning by Air.

The first stationary compressed air cleaning apparatus to be placed in a hotel in the United States, if not in the world, was put in operation in Milwaukee recently. The compressor is located in the basement, and from it Easily reached by steam or electric cars; seven pipes lead to every floor of the building, with places thereon for attaching the hose, and hereafter the carpets and furniture and draperies of the hotel will be kept clean and sweet by means of this new device. It is an automatic piece of mechanism, and when in use the air pressure is kept at eighty pounds to the square inch. It is operated by electricity, and when the mit of pressure is reached the electrical current is cut off, but as soon as started up the connection is renewed and the pressure maintained. By this means the air current is sent through 4julyly the carpets, furniture and bedding, cleaning out all dirt and rendering them sweet and clean.-Milwaukee Sentinel.

Easy Way to Make Money.

About the easiest money making scheme ever seen is at Jerome, Ariz., ir the opinion of I. T. Stoddard, secretary of Arizona. "There is a brook that runs out of the lower workings of Senator William A. Clark's United Verde copper mine," he said. "This water percolates all through certain sulphuretic copper and gold deposits in the bowels of the earth, and as a result when it runs out of the mine into a pool ar ranged for its reception it is heavily loaded with liquid copper. The mining people dump scrap iron of all kinds into the pool, and the presence of the iron in the water precipitates the cop per in solid form to the bottom of the pool, where it is picked up in irregular shapes. I was told the last time I was in Jerome that Clark's people pick out of that scrap iron pool about $600 or $700 worth of practically pure copper every twenty-four hours. That's what I call an easy way of making money."

Youngsters In a Postoffice.

The postmaster at Jasper, Mo., anhounced some weeks ago that he would no longer deliver mail between 4 and 4:30 p. m. to children going home from school because of the disturbance and disorder resulting from a concerted descent of the "kids" upon the postoffice. One parent took exception to this ruling and complained to the department at Washington in the hope of compelling the postmaster to set it aside. The postmaster general, however, upheld his local representative. The ruling having been officially sanctioned at headquarters, it will be permanently enforced.

The Peanut In London.

Noting the introduction of the baked peanut in London, the Pall Mall Gazette observes: "We do not know whether that excellent feature of British civilization, the hot potato, flourishes on winter nights at the street corners of New York. Probably it does, but if it does not there should be an opening for some good Samaritan with an eye to business to show our cousins that they have not got a monopoly of good things. However, we welcome the peanut, more familiar to us as the monkey nut, as a highly desirable immigrant and have no doubt that he has come to stay."

Literary Underwriting. One well known firm of publishers runs a good deal of its business on the following lines: It secures a popular novelist, offers him so much for his dicate in the city to share the expense A new book by a popular author is a considerably safer investment than many newly discovered gold mines.-

The Twinges of Rheumatism Make Life a Burden Until They are Overcome by Dr. Greene's Nervura.

Rheumatism is the subtle foe which steals away the joy of life. It gets into your joints and your muscles. It comes and stays and everything you do to dislodge it seems useless. Sometimes it lays you up, sometimes it lets you drag around, but its sting is always with you when you make a quick or an unguarded movement.

Louis D. Appel, Jr., Assistant Manager Harmonie Club, 313 W. 36th St., New York City, says:

"Two years ago I was taken with rheumatism. I could not sleep or eat but very little, and for over two months I could not stand on my feet. My weight haddecreased to such an extent as to force me to look for better medical advice than myown doctor. I had seen Dr. Greene's Nervura advertised and concluded to try it.
I had not used it very long be-fore I felt the pain and swelling leaving me, and to my as if I were a new man, weight increased. My appetite was better than it ever was, and now I am well and hearty, after going through the most intense pain which a human person could endure. I cheerfully recommend Dr. Greene's wonderful Nervura to my friends who know how I have suffered, and I hope this testimonial may be published.

Rheumatism supports half the doctors in christendom, but it would disappear if every sufferer understood how surely it is cured by Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

Don't think because nothing has yet cured your rheumatism that Dr. Greene's Nervura won't do it. for it will if you give it a chance. You'll pay almost any sum to be rid of the trouble, but you can get rid of it at little cost. Start to-day using the medicine that is known to cure rheumatism, and that has been curing it for many years.

=Mrs. Elizabeth R. Locke, widow of the late Daniel Fifield and daughter of Jonathan and Betsy (Russell) Locke, died of the painful malady from which she Sierra Bengaline, her niece, a prairie Rose, has been afflicted for some time, on Friday, Jan. 31st, at her home at 14 Palmer street, Arlington, where she has resided with her son and daughter, Mr. Wallace A. and Miss Augusta Fiffeld, for several years. Mrs. Fifield had a beautiful disposition and those Christian virtues which endeared her to many friends who have felt the deepest love and sympathy for her in her affliction of body which she has borne so patiently and uncomplainingly. Mrs. Fifield has a son, Mr. John Fifield, who resides in Malden, while her sisters, Mrs. Sarah M. Cox and Miss Adel line M. Locke, have their home in Arliington, with which the family has long been identified, although the homestead is on what is known as Turkey Hill, over the Winchester line, where the decleased has a brother and sister living. The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon, at the home on Palmer street, Rev. It is to be hoped a large number will be present at Miss Morley's lecture on next Wednesday morning, as it is the most important in the series and of vital interest to all.

Wednesday, Feb. 11, at 10 o'clock, in G. A. R. Hall. These talks are most important to the mothers, a fact which is beginning to be fully realized by club members, as shown in the steady increase in attendance.

An extra course of three cooking lectures under the auspices of the Home Dept., will be given by Miss Ewart in lower G. A. R. Hall, at ten o'clock on alternate Tuesday mornings, commencing Feb. 18th. The course will include breakfast dishes, dainty individual convalescent dishes, supper dishes and des-

Saturday evening, Feb. 1st, Miss Lillian Morse entertained an attractive group of young people at the residence of her parents on Robinson terrace, if we may so name the location for the lack of a better or more definite designation. The company numbered about twenty-five friends of the young hostess and the evening was marked by a series of delightful events from beginning to end. The earlier hours were spent with a game of six-handed euchre, at the conclusion of which handsome prizes were awarded. The fortunate scorers were Miss Anita Dale and Mr. William Riley. ### Golf Club Dance

The dance given by the Lexington Golf Club proved quite all that could have been anticipated for it. It was a crush, undeniably swagger, as well as an agreeable assembly of friends and acquaintances who do not often have the pleasure of meeting at so charming a social divertisement as this proved. The function was given in the hall of the Old Belfry Club, Thursday evening, and was under the management of Mr. Chas. B. Davis, Miss Tower and Miss Lockwood. Nonresident members of the club and their friends gave the party an unfamiliar air to Lexington society, but did not dominate it, for there was an unusually large number of our people present prominent as leaders in the social, literary, club and professional circles of the town. There were those who are not often inticed from the more exclusive confines of homes a party of twenty, including the Misses Lockwood, the Misses Niles, Dr. Jack, Miss Porter, now quite famous as a 19fil golf champion; the tall and stately looking Misses Fay, and Mr. Waters, the well known Harvard foot ball coach. Mrs. Goodrich furnished the music. Ices. cake and coffee were served during the mid-evening rest in the dancing. Beautiful women, enhanced by the graces of becoming full dress, and a large attendance of attractive men, had their full influence in making the evening a delight to all participants. But the chief attraction of the evening consisted of a series of fancy dances given at intervals prior to the German. The first of these was the stately minuette, in charge of Mrs. W. W. Reed and danced by Miss Alice Hamblen and Mr. Arvidson, Miss Theodora Robinson and Mr. W. H. Ballard, Miss Wadleigh and Mr. L. T. Redman, Miss Anita Dale and Mr. Richard Wellington. The sumptuousness of the court costumes and dignity of the stately dance made a spectacle pleasant for the eye to dwell on. Mrs. Edwin Read danced a skirt dance, making a charming and graceful figure in accordion pleated white draperies. Her sister, Mrs. Ralph L. Stevens, gave a Spanish dance with a dash and abandonment which was most captivating. Urgent demands for encores were conceded to by these ladies, Mrs. Stevens giving a tambourine dance which climaxed her firstappearance. Her costume made her appearance picturesquely Spanish. ...
